12. (Confidential - JMM) Called Senator Thomas McIntyre's office regarding his request for a briefing on Soviet missiles, etc., and explained that these matters would be covered in a briefing of the Senate Armed Services Committee at 2:30 p.m. tomorrow. I was told in that case the Senator would not want the briefing today.

13. (Confidential - JMM) I called Chairman Lucien Nedzi, Intelligence Subcommittee, House Armed Services Committee, and told him there were some developments regarding Soviet strategic weapons which I thought he would be interested in. He said he would schedule an early Subcommittee meeting.

14. (Unclassified - JMM) Called Jim Woolsey, General Counsel, Senate Armed Services Committee, and explained that I was sending over [REDACTED] memo responding to allegations by Sam Adams. I asked Woolsey not to publish or make part of the official record the [REDACTED] memo but merely use it for background.

15. (Confidential - JMM) Confirmed with Ed Braswell, Chief Counsel, Senate Armed Services Committee, a briefing by Carl Duckett, DDS&T, of the Committee at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon. To told him we preferred not to have a transcript but would not fight the problem.

16. (Unclassified - JMM) Paul Sakwa called to say he wants to declassify the five memos he sent to Mr. Bissell about 1961 and asked how to go about it. I said I wasn't sure but would look into it and let him know. He said they dealt with such things as rigging elections, etc. He said he would like us to provide the Committee (Senate Armed Services) with a copy of his memo to President Kennedy. I said we would be glad to provide the Committee with anything they asked for but saw no reason to provide them with things in which they had expressed no interest simply on the request of an individual. Sakwa reminded me he was an American citizen and I said if the Committee requested it they would get it since we always responded to the Committee. He challenged this and then spoke of the fact that he knew everything in the Agency was recorded and microfilmed and we could certainly find any of the memos in question if we wanted to. He said "do you want me to talk to Jack Anderson?" I said if he was taking that position I wasn't going to discuss the matter with him any further. After checking the regulations, I called Sakwa back to say that I had gotten the answer to the question I promised him regarding the procedures for declassification. (He asked me to identify myself although my secretary had already done so in placing the call.) After doing so, I then read him the full text of the pertinent regulation for which he thanked me.
